

Berkley Public Library

Study Room Policy

The purpose of the library's study rooms is to provide space for study and/or collaborative work.

1. Study rooms are available free of charge and are open during library hours.
2. Study rooms can accommodate one (1) to four (4) people.
3. Study rooms are available on a first come, first served basis. Study rooms may not be reserved ahead of time.
4. Study rooms can be used in one-hour increments per person or group. If no one is waiting for a room, additional time may be granted. Check in at the reference desk to access a study room.
5. Noise volume within study rooms must be kept to a low level.
6. Study rooms must be vacated fifteen (15) minutes before the library's closing.
7. Study rooms must be left in the condition they were found.
8. Those using the study rooms must adhere to the library's Code of Conduct.
